Triton College – Package Design

Triton College, Esko and Printware have formed a unique blend of expertise, technology, and innovation. The result is a partnership that will benefit the packaging and printing industry.

Join us on October 4th or 5th when Triton College will unveil a new packaging production design program complete with brand color management. Hear the experts and gather ideas through demonstrations that will help reduce errors and increase your productivity. You will see the same hardware and software used in our production design classes and seminars and throughout the industry.

Have questions? This is your opportunity to speak with the experts, without the crowds! Follow the production steps from structural design to prepress, to output and printing. Learn what the Triton Visual Communication Department can offer you and your company.
